TIP:
You can talk with your child about all the ways the little boy in the story cared for the carrot seed (pulling the weeds around the seed and sprinkling the ground with water, etc.) and how he kept focused on his goal, even when everyone in his family doubted that the seed would grow.

SKILL:
Focus and Self Control includes being able to work toward a goal. Executive Function skills are driven by goals.

TIP:
Ask your child:
• “What did the little boy do to help the seed grow?”
• “How do you think the little boy felt when nothing came up?”

SKILL:
An important aspect of Executive Function skills is remembering information so you can use it in different ways. By asking your child to recall the story, you are building this capacity.

TIP:
You can share a story with your child about a time that you had to exercise self control to work toward a goal that was important to you. Remind the child of a time that he or she worked toward a goal as well.

SKILL:
It is important for children to understand that working toward a goal takes time, effort and believing you can achieve the goal.

You can read The Carrot Seed in a way that highlights Focus and Self Control, a Life Skill that promotes Executive Functions. Children need this skill in order to achieve their goals, especially in a world that is filled with distractions and information overload. It involves paying attention, remembering the rules, thinking flexibly and exercising self control.

The Carrot Seed
By Ruth Krauss
Pictures by Crockett Johnson
In this heartwarming story, a boy plants and cares for a carrot seed. He’s certain it will grow into something wonderful, even when those around him have doubts.