

SEVEN ESSENTIAL LIFE SKILLS

Skill Building Book Tips

You can read The Best Seat in Second Grade in a way that highlights Focus and Self Control, a Life Skill that promotes Executive Functions. Children need this skill in order to achieve their goals, especially in a world that is filled with distractions and information overload. It involves paying attention, remembering the rules, thinking flexibly and exercising self control.

TIP:

Sam was tired of waiting to be the Hamster Helper. Talk with your child about a time he or she was tired of waiting for something. Try to recall what he or she did to make the waiting easier.

SKILL:

Focus and Self Control includes being able to wait for something, even when it is hard. This is learning to exercise self control, a Executive Function skills. Helping your child remember what he or she did to make the waiting easier promotes this skill. The back and forth conversation you have with your child about waiting is what researchers call “Take-Turns Talk.” Like a game of ball, one of you says or does something and the other responds. The importance of these everyday interactions to brain-building is a key finding from child development research.

TIP:

Share what you do when you need to stay focused, even when it is hard or when you can't go on automatic. For example, sitting in traffic or waiting for the bus, you may sing or think about happy things.

SKILL:

Focus and Self Control is promoted when you have strategies to use when you are challenged or distracted. When you share your story and strategies, you are teaching your child new ways to develop self control.

TIP:

Sam took the hamster on the field trip because he couldn't resist sharing the experience with him. You can talk with your child about how Sam didn't think ahead about the consequences, especially the risk of losing the hamster. Ask your child how Sam might have handled the situation differently. You can also share a time that you didn't think ahead and how that affected you or others—for example, saying something that hurt someone else's feelings. Share what you do now to stop and think ahead.

SKILL:

Finding ways to stop and think ahead require reflecting and resisting the temptation to go on auto-pilot. Your child will learn from your experience.

The Best Seat in Second Grade

By Katharine Kenah

Sam feels he has the best seat in his classroom because he sits next to the class hamster. He yearns to show the hamster the world outside his cage, so he sneaks him along on a class trip to the science museum and then loses him in the Hamster Habitat!

These tips sheets were developed by Mind in the Making, in collaboration with First Book. Mind in the Making and Vroom are programs of the Bezos Family Foundation. Find more books and materials on the First Book Marketplace, a resource available exclusively to educators and programs serving children in need. Visit: www.fbmarketplace.org.

